During the fiscal year, 1922, there cleared from American ports

4,536,151 tons of steam shipping engaged in the foreign trade under the American flag. In the same time the tonnage of foreign vessels which cleared from our ports aggregated

16,624,882 tons. That is the result of Free-trade in our foreign carrying trade.

The Pinkertons are explaining their connection with the Homestead strike and other affairs of a similar character. Nobody will deny that such an explanation has been a large and long felt want. It is only to be hoped that their explanation will explain.

It is reported that "there are indications in New York of a coming conflict between the Democrats for Mr. Cleveland's favor." The same thing might be said of the Democrats of every other state. It would not be accurate to speak of the conflict in Ohio as "coming." It has arrived.

Doubtless the Pension Bureau should be separated from politics, as some of the self-styled reformers insist; but, doubtless, says The New York Press, it will never be by the Democratic administration. When the Democracy finds that it cannot use the pension system to further partisan interests it will go in for annihilating the whole organization.

It has always been the burden of Democratic complaint against the Protective Tariff that the prices of manufacturers are bulled to the extent of the duties, that the "banded monopolists" rob all consumers by exacting enormous profits. Yet the only "Tariff reform" proposition on which Democrats agree is that wool and other raw material should be free-listed, so that the cost of production will be lowered and the margin of profit therefore increased. Whatever other charges may lie against the Democratic reformers, it would be an unprovoked falsehood to accuse them of inconsistency.

Now is the time when the Federal office-holder talks about his plans for the future. Secretary of Agriculture Rusk will go back to his home in Vernon county, Wisconsin. "It will seem pleasant to me," he says, "to be among my own people again, to return to my own town and sit on a box in front of a store and talk to the old farmers from the country." That is an illustration of Republican simplicity and shows a phase of American character that largely accounts for the strength and stability of our institutions. The real sovereignty in this country is not in Federal station. Its throne is a store box. In the case of Secretary Rusk, and perhaps the same thing may be said of every other Cabinet officer, it is not without satisfaction that he leaves a place which brings a salary of only $8,000, while his expenses exceed $12,000.

A bill is now before the Alabama Legislature which provides that any person whose state and county taxes are assessed do not amount to more than $5 shall be relieved from payment of such taxes if he can show that he did not vote at the elections of August and November of the preceding year. It seems incredible that such a bill should be seriously considered, and yet it is stated that the bill will probably soon become a law. The great danger to any Government founded on popular suffrage arises from the difficulty of getting electors to vote. It is a measure which offers them a bribe not to vote. The buying of votes is made a crime by the statutes of nearly every state in the Union. Alabama proposes to buy up voters by law. A more un-American, unjustifiable and vicious measure has surely never passed any Legislature.

In the Presbyterian Church at Washington at 7 o'clock last night was solemnly wedded the happy couple who have together the future destinies of Abraham Owens and Miss Alice Tobin Forman. Their friends are only limited by the number of their acquaintances and a large proportion of them were present. It was the universal verdict that the wedding itself was all that could be desired as indicative of a bright future for those most directly interested. There was no pomp and display but a shadow of quiet attractiveness hovered about that was charming in its effectiveness.

It was in the historic old town of Washington where Mr. Owens and Miss Forman, yet in their childhood, met and learned to love each other. Both have lived during the whole of their lives in the immediate vicinity of the place, so that their dreams and thoughts of happiness should at last be realized within its sacred borders was a most happy consummation.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mattie P. Forman, and Miss Jane L. Wood of this city. The four ushers were: J. B. Durrett, Judge Thomas R. Plister, James Burdette, Jr., and S. T. Hickman, who also formed part of the bridal party in the capacity of groomsmen. The bride entered the church upon the arm of the groom preceded by the other members of the party.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. T. Spears, Pastor of the Church. The bride and groom presided at the organ with unusual grace.

Immediately after the conclusion of the ceremony, carriages were taken and the bridal cortege proceeded at once to the hospitable home of the bride's parents, two miles distant, where an informal reception was held. After congratulations a delightful repast and refreshments were served, dancing was indulged in and a most pleasant evening was thoroughly enjoyed by all.

The bride is the elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Forman. A girl of nobler impulses and purer character never lived. To have won her is the crowning assurance of a life of contentment and happiness for the man who can now claim her as his own. She is of a particularly bright and sunny disposition, and while amiable and charming above the average or women at all times, in all places and to all people it is about her own home that her qualities are most pronounced, which have endeared her to every one who has the good fortune to be numbered among her friends.

The happy and much-to-be-envied groom is the youngest son of Basil D. Forman and a brother to Dr. C. C. Owens of this city. He is among Mason county's most thrifty and prosperous young farmers and is of steady and industrious habits. His many qualities have commanded for him the esteem and respect of Mason county's best citizens. His legion of friends in every section wish for him all the good things of life.

The ushers and groomsmen were delightfully entertained at the home of the groom's father in the afternoon prior to the wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Owens will make their home with Miss Sarah Forman, an aunt of the latter.

The Famous Piano.

These instruments have enjoyed a high reputation for more than forty years. Are Brilliant and Musical in Tone, and afford a most beautiful accompaniment to vocal solos—the tone having the rare grand quality which blends admirably with the human voice. They are durable, being constructed of the best materials, by the most skillful workmen. They have earned an especial reputation for keeping in tone, and when repaired by a competent tuner, retain their original fullness of tone—never growing thin or weak with age.

The Johnson Upright Piano especially has maintained its high position during the past few years, and have invariably received a high award wherever exhibited. As all the instruments are made in this country, they are made to an exact standard manufactured in the country.

A Lively Corpse Seizes Sick Men Into Health.

An Inmate of a New York City Hospital, Supposed to Be Dead,

Taken to the Morgue, When His Reviver

The Dead Man Revived to His Feet in the Hospital Where He Came a Communion Among the Inmates.

New York, Dec. 15.—Thos. Hyland, an inmate of the Kings county hospital, had a thrilling experience recently, which resulted in spreading the report that the county buildings were haunted.

Hyland, who is about 50 years old, had been in the hospital for about six months suffering from rheumatism and heart trouble. A young physician was called about midnight recently to look at Hyland, whom the doctor found in the attending nurse, thought was dead.

The doctor pronounced the man dead, and Thierney and Joseph Dobbs, another nurse, were ordered to remove the body to the morgue, which is in the rear of the hospital.

Dobbs and Thierney were summoned at 2 o'clock to remove a dead corpse. When they arrived at the morgue and opened the door they were terrified by the sudden apparition of Hyland wrapped in a blanket. He ran toward the hospital. The nurses dropped their burden, and, springing over the fence, took the road, running in opposite directions.

Hyland, in the meantime, rushed to his cot in Ward 5, and, hiding himself away in the blankets, slept peacefully until morning.

At daylight another commotion took place when the patients awoke and saw Hyland in the cot. They hurriedly dressed themselves, picked up their crutches and canes and demanded their certificates of discharge from the office.

The doctor asked for the body and was told by Hyland that the place was haunted, for Hyland's ghost was lying in his cot.

The doctor laughed at what he supposed his illusion, but on going to the ward himself he was astounded to find Hyland sleeping there. The nurses and other patients were soon set at rest on finding that it was Hyland himself and not his ghost. The occurrence was explained as the result of suspended animation.

PANIC IN A SCHOOL.

Madness by the Cry of Fire, children

St. Louis, Dec. 15.—One of the pupils in a room in the second story of the Shaded school building Wednesday morning placed a can of kerosene on the stove to warm. The can was tipped lightly, and the result was that it exploded with a report that was much louder than the children were used to. The children were frightened when they were put in the

Some of the most excited took the cry of fire, and the wildest kind of confusion ensued. Several of the boys ran to the windows fronting on the yard, and, without stopping to think what they were doing, raised the sashes and jumped to the ground. Others opened the windows of the second story, and the children of the first story, who were in the yard, rushed to the windows from which they scrambled to the ground below.

The superintendent and teachers could not check the panic-stricken children, and in a few minutes 300 were in the grounds yelling all kinds of alarms and five fire engines, two ambulances and other apparatus were on the scene of great alarm were in the streets in front of the building. Their services were ordered to remove the body to the morgue, which is in the rear of the hospital.

FEARFUL DEATH.

Dreadful Colliery Disaster in England.

A Tremendous Explosion of Accumulated Gas.

A Hundred Men Remain in the Mine Unable to Get Away Owing to the Fire

Which Followed the Explosion—About Fifty Miners Killed.

LONDON, Dec. 15.—A fearful explosion occurred Wednesday at the Banforth colliery, Wigan, and not less than fifty lives have been lost. The men went to their work as usual Wednesday morning, and after the colliery had been inspected in the usual way, they had not been at work long when a terrible explosion shook the earth for a great distance, and clouds of smoke shot up through the shaft into the air.

A multitude of people rushed to watch the mine and the greatest excitement prevailed. It was ascertained that a large number of men and children made an indescribable scene. Some were immediately taken to ascertain the full extent of the disaster and a crowd of volunteers promptly offered to assist in the rescue.

Later advice from Wigan state that the loss of life may be somewhat less than at first reported. The situation is, however, most critical. A hundred men remain in the mine unable to get out owing to the fire which followed the explosion, and which is raging furiously in the mine, making it difficult for rescuers to get at the imprisoned miners. Notwithstanding the fire and the other obstacles, the work of rescue is proceeding, and volunteers are not deterred by danger or difficulty in their efforts to save their fellow miners from a terrible fate.

Hundreds of women and children surround the mouth of the mine waiting anxiously for news of the fate of their husbands, brothers and sons. The women volunteered to assist in the work of rescue, but their assistance was not required. No effort is being spared to put out the fire and bring the men to the surface.

GOULD'S HEIRS. Will Carry Out His Design to Construct and Support a Preparatory School. New York, December 15.—By the will of Jay Gould not a penny of his many millions was left for any philanthropic or charitable work, but, notwithstanding this fact, there are many friends of the late millionaire who insist that he had evolved a gigantic scheme for the reconstruction of the support of a free preparatory school for boys and that his death coming suddenly made it impossible for him to carry out the plan.

His scheme so that it could be fittingly and legally mentioned in his will. The plan was to build a school for the children of the poor, and the school was to be named after the late millionaire. The school was to be built on the site of the late millionaire's estate, and the school was to be named after the late millionaire.

SOLDIERS CREMATED. Mexican Troops Battle With Bandits on the Rio Grande. GALVESTON, Tex., Dec. 15.—A special from Laredo to the News says: Wednesday a force of United States cavalry, consisting of fifty men under Lieut. Headin, were ordered by Mr. McIntosh, found for Zepeda on a scouting expedition on the Rio Grande in search of bandits.

Several deputy marshals will follow the lieutenants. Information is received here that during an attack at Ignacio Capt. Segara and a citizen were captured. The soldiers are actively organizing in view of the dissolution of the militia, and are endeavoring to increase the number of soldiers provided for in the bill. They would, he added, oppose the other points of the measure.

Upon motion of Dr. O'Connell, national liberator, the bill was referred to a committee of twenty-eight members of the liberal. Capri is doing everything in his power to gain time, in the hope of winning over the center party, but every thing points to the abandonment of the bill. The socialists are actively organizing in view of the dissolution of the militia, and are endeavoring to increase the number of soldiers provided for in the bill. They would, he added, oppose the other points of the measure.

Caused by Bull Business. PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., Dec. 15.—A ten per cent reduction has been ordered by the Phoenix Iron Co. in the price of steel and shops of the plant except the building mill, where wages have been reduced from $3.25 to $3 per ton. The reduction is to take effect December 30. Common laborers will hereafter receive ninety-five cents instead of $1.00 per day. The reason given is depression in business.

Men's Room for Homeless Strikers. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 15.—The industrial council of Kansas City at a called meeting decided that each member of its various labor organizations should Wednesday devote his wages to a fund for the benefit of the homeless strikers. There are between 5,000 and 6,000 members of the various unions, and their wages will average $1 a day. This will amount to more than $10,000.

A Good Word for Jay Gould. TOLSON, Dec. 15.—The editor of the New York Times, John P. Stowe, writes the following to a Kansas newspaper: In the midst of all that is being published against Jay Gould, please do not forget to say that he is a man who, when settlers in western Kansas were penniless and threatened with starvation, I wrote to this much abused man about it. He promptly sent me $5,000, which was invested in bread and meat for their relief.

Madness by the Cry of Fire, children Left From the Windows. St. Louis, Dec. 15.—One of the pupils in a room in the second story of the Shaded school building Wednesday morning placed a can of kerosene on the stove to warm. The can was tipped lightly, and the result was that it exploded with a report that was much louder than the children were used to. The children were frightened when they were put in the

Some of the most excited took the cry of fire, and the wildest kind of confusion ensued. Several of the boys ran to the windows fronting on the yard, and, without stopping to think what they were doing, raised the sashes and jumped to the ground. Others opened the windows of the second story, and the children of the first story, who were in the yard, rushed to the windows from which they scrambled to the ground below.

The superintendent and teachers could not check the panic-stricken children, and in a few minutes 300 were in the grounds yelling all kinds of alarms and five fire engines, two ambulances and other apparatus were on the scene of great alarm were in the streets in front of the building. Their services were ordered to remove the body to the morgue, which is in the rear of the hospital.
